About the Instructor

Cynthia Lucero has been in education since 1998. She taught educator preparation at UNH and Saint Anselm College before coming to NHTI. She is the coordinator of clinical practice for the Education department and a professor of education. She worked previously as an elementary and middle school teacher and a middle school assistant principal. She loves all aspects of education, but areas of professional interest include mentoring new teachers, supporting students with disabilities, student assessment, and special education. Cynthia earned her B.S and M.Ed. from Notre Dame College and is completing her doctoral dissertation through Northeastern University.

NHTI – Concord's Community College

NHTI is a dynamic public institution of higher learning that provides accessible, rigorous education for students, businesses, and the community.
