

Jetting off to somewhere fun

Ever just want to jet off to somewhere fun and leave everything hard behind? I do. A lot! I have a whole list of places I am looking forward to visiting someday. Unfortunately, running away from difficult things does little to actually make them go away. It does sound good in the moment, though.

There is a time for traveling to somewhere fun. Right now, though, you are on a different journey. You are on a journey of learning, working toward goals, growing in knowledge and wisdom. This journey might not be as fun as visiting somewhere exotic, but it can still be exciting. Traveling changes us. Education changes us too. Right now the education journey is the expedition you are on. You are exactly where you need to be. Someday, you will be somewhere else. Whether you are on vacation or learning, it's good to be present, enjoy the pilgrimage, and grow from our experiences.

If you need help making the journey a little less turbulent, let us know in NHTIACE@ccsnh.edu.